Introduction

The following was inspired by the list of clergy currently (2026) by the west end of the nave, as well as the excellent work of the Bathampton Local History Research Group in publishing the previous four volumes. The research in the volume has amended some of the dates on this list, unearthed more clergymen and discovered the details about many of their lives.

My sources have primarily been the various Bishop's Registers (1309-1363, 1401-1443), Foster's Alumni Oxoniensis (1501-1855), the online Clergy of the Church of England Database (1527-1824) and the online Cambridge Alumni Database (1776-1930). It is hoped to use Crockford's Clerical Dictionary, Foster's Index Ecclesiasticus and the other Bishop's Registers in time as well.

Such a work as this is never complete: the earliest complete Bishop's Register in our diocese is that of John Droxford, starting in 1309, so the first generations of our clergy is unknown to us, while the end dates of most tenures are unknown until the 16th century.

Nonetheless, it is my hope that the list of our clergymen over the past ten centuries will encourage current and future generations of the Christian community at Bathampton, especially our ministers.

fl.c1190: Robert

- Brother of Peter
- Described as parson of Hamton in charters of uncertain date.¹
- Date implied by dating in other signatories to the charters.

fl.1261: John

- Isolated reference to William Button, Bishop of Bath, joining Hantone and Claverton as a liberty.
- John, 'rector of Hampton' is mentioned in a 1261 debt to the Prior.²
- A 'J' is referred to as the 'rector of the church of Hampton next Bath' in two similar debts to the Prior of possibly c.1290.³

fl.1297: Alan

- Presumably Alan de Brokeneberwe, who, as rector of Hampton, had a suit brought against him on 'charges of adultery and other crimes' in 1310.⁴
- During his tenure (1302-1310), Bishop Haselshaw gives Hampton Church to the Bath Priory.⁵

fl.1308: Roger

1314-1317: Henry of Foleham

- Possibly of Fulham, London: others known as 'de Fulham' were resident in London in a similar period
- The Bishop collated Henry de Foleham, his Clerk, Acolite, to the Church of Hampton (May 1314 at Pucklechurch)
- Inducted by the Archdeacon of Bath⁶

1317-1326: William of Walcot

- Presumably of Walcot, Bath.
- Newly ordained.
- Instituted and inducted vicar of Bathampton (7 Kal. Nov. 1317 at Evercreech).
- Patron: Prior of Bath.⁷
